The public always has confidence in dealing with a reliable house. . This is true of a firm which has never been known to break a promise and who are noted as being practically leaders in their particular lines. The well-known and popular house of Ludwig Baumann & Co., of 502 to 514 Eighth avenue, between Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth streets, are once more to the fore with an anouncement that will be pleasant news to their patrons and the general public. Commencing this morning, they will present to every customer, regardles: of the amount of the purchase made, twenty yards of carnet. This is something which exceeds in liberality anything heretofore known, and the wonder is how they are able to accomplish it. Still, that is a perplexing croblem for the firm, and not their customers, to ponder over. Their announcement in the daily press is well worthy of perusal, and will, no doubt, save both time and money to all intending purchasers of furniture, carpets or, in fact, anything in the house-furnishing innes. Judge Briggs, however, sustains the receiver, and has ordered all the property and money of the road turned over to him.

This is the latest development in the This is the latest development in the movement to oust the present managers of the Evanaville and Terre Haute road. Messrs. Harvey Fisk & Sons, who negotiated considerable amounts of the Company's bonds a year or so ago, have issued a circular in which grave charges are made against those now in control. They charge that the mamagers were largely interested in the Peoria, Decatur and Evansville and the Louisville, Evansville and St. Louis Railroad Companies. These Companies have no corporate connection with the Evansville and Terre Haute Company, and for several years past have not earned fixed charges.

"From this," the circular says. "It has resulted that the Peoria, Decatur and Evansville Company is now indebted to your Company to the amount of $32,000; that your Company has made advances to the Louisville, Evansville and St. Louis Company amounting to $897,500, for which a settlement has recently been attempted to be made by turning over to your Company obligations of the Louisville, Evansville and St. Louis Company of probably little value and at the pany of probably little value and at the same time cancelling the interest, amounting to over $50,000."

House, Just as soon as Kerr, of Pennsylvania, Yoder, of Ohio, and Turner, of Nork, were turned down in 1890, they began to work for election as clerk, sergeant-at-arms and doorkeeper of the House; and they got the places and are in them.

WHAT SHE HAD TO DO.

A man and woman, who live over on the west side and are married, went up to a Lake George hotel a week or two ago for a little outing. They found things rather dull, and after a week of it the man told his wife that he had been called back to Buffalo on business, but that she would have to stay until the end of the three weeks planned for the trip, says the Buffalo Express.

She protested that she would be lonely and all that, but the man was obdurate, and the result was that she stayed. An arrangement was made, however, that she should telegraph to him if it got too stupid, and he would wire back whether or not she could come home.

THEY YEARN TO GET BACK.

Ex-Congressman Humiliasting Them It is probable that the combination of fellow feeling which prevails among members of Congress will result in the re-election of all the present officers of the lower house of Congress, says the Pittsburg Leader.

There are now in three of the four principal offices of the House ex-members of that body. They are the clerk, sergeant-at-arms and doorkeeper. It may also be stated at this point that the secretary and sergeant-at-arms of the Senate, who have been serving for years under the Republican regime, are ex-members of the House—Gen. McCook and Col Valentine.

No sooner does a member of the House finds himself repudlated by his constituency than he turns about and seeks an office under the body in which he has been serving. Some members of the House begin, as soon as they are defeated for renomination or re-election, to work up a place for themselves in the House.

Just as soon as Kerr, of Pennsylvania, selves to Get a Soft Enap

It is a very noor commentary upon the mettle that is a a member of Congress that he has no higher ambition than to hold an humble position as employee of the body in which he is serving when he falls of re-election. It is prima facie evidence that he has no pride, no ambition, and no business at home.

wire back whether or not she could come home.

The man came home, and the woman moped. She stood it for three days, and then, when a rain-storm came on and everything was so dull and miserable that she could stand it no longer, she telegraphed to the man:

"It's raining. What shall I do?"

He had been having a very lively time for those three days. He was perfectly satisfied to have his wife stay at Lake George for the remainder of the allotted time. So he went to the telegraph office and wired to her this heartless measure."
